News Break Scavenger Hunt

Sunday’s News Break challenges you to hunt through the Sunday, June 14, 2020 print replica of The Seattle Times to find answers to the following questions.

1. Quickly tracking the contacts of COVID-19 patients is vital for reopening Washington, Gov. Jay Inslee has said, but his administration can’t tell you if it’s meeting its own goal to reach people within _____ hours of a positive coronavirus test. (MAIN)

2. Another topic: How to cope with the growing number of onlookers who seem to regard what is known variously as CHAZ (Capitol Hill Autonomous Zone) or CHOP (Capitol Hill Occupied Protest), among other titles, as the city’s newest tourist attraction. What is this 6-block experiment about? (MAIN)

3. An hour before sunrise Saturday, SpaceX launched yet another batch of Starlink satellites from Cape Canaveral, continuing the company’s mission to build a constellation of satellites that can deliver what? (MAIN)

4. While the country copes with the coronavirus, an economic downturn and a reckoning over racism, lawmakers have reached bipartisan agreement on an election-year deal to double spending on a popular conservation program and devote nearly $2 billion a year to improve and maintain what? (MAIN)

5. On Wednesday, after a Black race car driver called on NASCAR to ban the ______________________ flag from its events, the organization did just that. (MAIN)

6. Now that telehealth has been quickly rolled out across the nation and patients and clinicians have found the experience useful, it is unlikely that ____________ doctor visits, in all its various forms, will be temporary, said Dr. Devin Mann, senior director for informatics and innovation at New York University. (NW)

7. Visitors to the Seattle Art Museum’s Olympic Sculpture Park wind their way through the giant metal sculpture by Richard Serra called “_________” on Monday. (NW)

8. The price of meat is going up. Choices will be fewer in your grocer’s meat case. You can’t buy as much as you want and, just like everything else during a pandemic, the reasons are complicated. Costco, Sam’s Club and other grocers have put _________________ on fresh beef, pork and poultry while the meat processing plants struggle to keep their workers safe from coronavirus outbreaks. (BUSINESS)

9. The coronavirus pandemic may help push the funeral business into the internet age. Funeral homes must give a detailed price list to anyone who requests one in person, but they aren’t required to post prices where? (BUSINESS)

10. “Getting outside has been really important for everyone,” says Carrie Culp, co-owner of the Ballard-based landscape architecture company Urban Oasis. “I think people have really recognized the value of their outdoor spaces … having a little _______________ outside, so you can get outside without dodging everyone.” (AT HOME)

News Break is posted to the Web on Monday. Please share this NIE News Break program with other teachers. To sign-up for the print replica for your class, please call 206/652-6290 or toll-free 1-888/775-2655. Copyright © 2020 The Seattle Times Company